

-13-

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a connecting system with locking elements for connecting bodies and individual parts, it being possible for the locking elements to be moved into or out of the locking position by magnetic force.